Deterministic modeling process is presented in the context of linear programs (LP). LP models are easy to solve computationally and have a wide range of applications in diverse fields. This site provides solution algorithms and the needed sensitivity analysis since the solution to a practical problem is not complete with the mere determination of the optimal solution.

Systems Simulation: The Shortest Route to Applications. This site features information about discrete event system modeling and simulation. It includes discussions on descriptive simulation modeling, programming commands, techniques for sensitivity estimation, optimization and goal-seeking by simulation, and what-if analysis.

In computational complexity theory, NP (nondeterministic polynomial time) is a complexity class used to classify decision problems. NP is the set of decision problems for which the problem instances, where the answer is "yes", have proofs verifiable in polynomial time.. An equivalent definition of NP is the set of decision problems solvable in polynomial time by a non-deterministic Turing machine.

In military theory, strategy is "the utilization during both peace and war, of all of the nation's forces, through large scale, long-range planning and development, to ensure security and victory" (Random House Dictionary). The father of Western modern strategic study, Carl von Clausewitz, defined military strategy as "the employment of battles to gain the end of war."

Space research and placing a man on the moon were certainly wicked problems, but they could be defined, the solution was realized when we landed the first man on the moon and brought him home safely, and the solution could be assessed as right or wrong.
