Model predictive control (MPC) is an advanced method of process control that is used to control a process while satisfying a set of constraints. It has been in use in the process industries in chemical plants and oil refineries since the 1980s. In recent years it has also been used in power system balancing models and in power electronics. Model predictive controllers rely on dynamic models of ...

Dr David Evans, 27 June 2014, David Evans's™ Notch-Delay Solar Theory and Model Home. If the Sun mainly controls the temperature on Earth, a turning point is almost upon us. (In the second part of this series of blog posts we will demonstrate that carbon dioxide is responsible for less than 25% of the global warming of the last six decades, so presumably the Sun is mainly responsible.)

Using the published literature and open-access internet resources we identified predictive biomarkers that are routinely used to prescribe targeted drugs for patients with solid tumors. We reviewed how each biomarker was identified from a clinical and preclinical standpoint (). The results were analyzed by a panel formed by experienced specialists in biomarker research from several fields ...
