Algorithmic trading is a method of executing a large order (too large to fill all at once) using automated pre-programmed trading instructions accounting for variables such as time, price, and volume to send small slices of the order (child orders) out to the market over time. They were developed so that traders do not need to constantly watch a stock and repeatedly send those slices out manually.

In economics, time preference (or time discounting, delay discounting, temporal discounting, long-term orientation) is the current relative valuation placed on receiving a good at an earlier date compared with receiving it at a later date. There is no absolute distinction that separates "high" and "low" time preference, only comparisons with others either individually or in aggregate.

COST BENEFIT ANALYSIS MODELS & USE OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE FOR PUBLIC POLICIES

Although cost benefit analysis and other frameworks for rational decision-making are being applied in more and more situations, these tools play too little a role in too many decisions--partly due to the time and funds required to implement good studies, and partly due to rigid adherence to fixed ideas, political ...
